IS AN AGE OF EDUCATION

ABLE ADDRESS GIVEN ON THE ROMAN CATHOLIC SCHOOLS.

Rev. Father Conaty Says That for Fifteen Hundred Years the Church Had Governed the World—Parochial Schools, He Claimed, Were Very Efficient.

Toronto, July 23.—The pavilion was fairly well filled this morning when the last day's session of the Pan-American congress began. The first speaker was Rev. T. J. Conaty of Worcester, Mass., who addressed the meeting on "Roman Catholic Schools." He said in opening: "If religion be left out of the schools it will not be long before it is left out of the house and out of the churches." He then mapped out the position which his church takes on the whole question of education and told his hearers how much the world owed to Roman Catholicism for preserving and developing in dark ages the light of knowledge. This, he said, was an age of education, but the age did not owe everything to science. There was a great debt of gratitude to the past, which could not be forgotten or overlooked. He strongly commended the position that the Roman Catholic church was opposed to mental development. History during the past one hundred years had been written with the purpose of proving that churches were despotic, but it had failed. The great moving powers for good in the education of the Roman Catholic church had been overlooked or had been made light of. The church had stood for education in every age and had ever been the friend of development. For fifteen hundred years the church had governed the world, and had been solely instrumental in preserving the spark of knowledge. Monks taught mankind under the shadow of the church and thousands drank learning from them in Alexandria, Jerusalem, Odessa and other cities. Ireland and England owed their standing as educational countries in the middle ages to the church, and it was through the efforts of the church that the great universities of Oxford, Paris, Padua, Bologna and others had risen.

The speaker pointed to the fact that many of the brightest names of medieval literature were the names of priests of the church. Touching on the question of parochial schools, the speaker contended that they were very efficient under the direction of the Christian brothers, and that the education received in them was of as high an order as in any other school. The attitude of the church to education was the same as its attitude to all other questions. It must serve to plant the kingdom of God in the heart of man. That must be its first and chiefest object.

Rev. A. Lazarus, Jewish rabbi of Toronto, followed in a brief speech. The closing meeting was held to-night, Rev. Dr. Smith of St. Paul, Minn., presiding. Rev. Dr. Carroll, editor of the New York Independent, was the first speaker and discussed religious development in the United States.

Dr. H. W. Rogers of the North Western university, moved a resolution of thanks to the different committees and to the citizens of Toronto for their hospitality. Toronto newspapers were omitted from the vote. The chairman made no remarks on the subject, but he had intimated previously that he had a pretty poor opinion of the local press, the reasons being the meagre reports which, in his view, they had given of the congress and their criticism of it as being a fraud.

The leaders of the convention, while admitting that the attendance was far less than was expected, insisted that the congress had been a reasonable success.

Arrested on Suspicion.
New York, July 23.—James Ward, who says he is a clerk, was arrested this afternoon about 4 o'clock on Pier 21 North River. Joe A. Paulina of 710 St. Paul street, Springfield, was a passenger on the steamer City of Hartford, which docks at that pier. Immediately on landing Paulina was accosted by Ward, who plied him with questions as to his knowing certain people. He finally asked Paulina to cash a check drawn on the Chemical National bank for $500, payable to James Ward and signed J. J. McKay. At this juncture Policeman Frayler, who had been watching the two, thinking that all was not right went over to them and asked if they were in trouble. Paulina told the officer what had taken place and thereupon Frayler placed Ward under arrest as a suspicious character.

Potatoes Are Diseased.
Washington, July 23.—The crop bulletin for the week ending July 22 issued by the weather bureau contains the following: New England—Too dry in northwest, potatoes slightly diseased in south; pears, peaches and blackberries good.

Railroad Men in Session.

Oriental Hotel, Manhattan Beach, Beach, July 23.—About fifty representatives met here to-day in response to a call issued by President Ingalls of the Big Four at the request of Chairman M. Depew of the board of presidents of the trunk lines. The meeting was to arrive at an agreement as to east and west-bound rates. It is proposed to vest the rate-making power in a permanent commission. This will result in the abolition of outside soliciting agents and give the roads more remunerative business. The conference went into executive session at 11 o'clock, President Ingalls of the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Big Four presiding. This afternoon the meeting was adjourned until morning. This evening President Ingalls said no announcement of the deliberations or action of the conference would be made.

Indemnity Money on the Way.

Tangier, July 23.—The indemnity money to be paid to Germany for the murder of a German subject near Saffi, has been brought here from the interior.

BLUE RIBBON MEETING.

The Track Was Fast and the Racing Was Very Spirited.

Detroit, July 23.—The blue ribbon meeting was continued to-day. An enormous crowd was present. The track was fast and the racing spirited, every event being long drawn out and the sport lasting until dark, and even then had to be postponed. The event of the day was the Merchants' and Manufacturers' stakes.

MATTERS COME TO LIGHT.

Prominent Men Are Involved in the Williamantic Bank Scandal.

Williamantic, Conn., July 23.—Matters are gradually coming to light in the Dime Savings bank affairs which tend to involve some prominent men of this city. W. G. Morrison, of the W. G. & A. R. Morrison Machine company, has been missing since Sunday. The Morrison company recently went into the hands of a trustee, and when the property was sold at public auction it was purchased by Attorney Thomas J. Kelley. It has for some time been supposed that the missing treasurer of the Dime Savings bank was the real purchaser, and Kelley merely acted as agent.

At an informal meeting of the bank directors to-day Mr. Kelley said he acted as agent for Walden in the purchase of $4,000 worth of machinery, which he sold to Sutton & Bain of Allentown, Pa., for $9,500, receiving $2,000 in cash and the balance to be paid in monthly installments. He assumed that the transaction was for the bank. The above transaction accounts for the $4,000 deficit in cash. It is supposed that as soon as Mr. Morrison learned of Walden's departure he left for parts unknown.

E. B. Sumner and Thomas J. Kelley left to-night for Allentown to look after the machinery transaction. It was stated to-night by good authority that several sensational arrests would probably be made during the next twenty-four hours. The missing treasurer and his father had built up an extensive fire insurance agency. Representatives of several companies from New York and Boston were in town to-day examining the accounts. It has been learned to-day that $10,000 of State Island railroad bonds, which were in the bank June 15, were missing on July 11 and have not been seen since.

Winners at Providence.

Providence, R. I., July 23.—The first day of the week's trotting races to-day resulted in victories for Amber, the bay stallion by Alcione in 2:24 1/4 in the 2:25 class.

MANY PEOPLE AT THE ROCK

SUCCESSFUL BALLOON ASCENSION BY JEWELL.

Between Two Thousand and Three Thousand People Witnessed the Balloon Flight and Parachute Jump—A Brief Description of Some of the Numerous Attractions at Savin Rock—Some Remarkable Showmen.

The merchants of Savin Rock enjoyed one of the liveliest days of the season yesterday. The crowd went down by hundreds in the afternoon, all the cars on the Winchester Avenue Railroad company's line being crowded with hundreds of people. It is hard to determine just what particular attraction drew the most people. Savin Rock always has enough to attract the pleasure-loving, but yesterday there was considerable besides the wanted supply of amusement to be found at the Rock. Jewell, the well known aeronaut, probably brought more people to the shore than any one else there, although there were numerous candidates for the dimes and nickels of the unwary. Jewell has already given successful ascensions at the Rock and he has the reputation of not being a "fake." So between 2,000 and 3,000 people gathered yesterday afternoon to see him make the ascension.

The balloon was placed in an open lot just across the railroad tracks from the grove. The balloon was here filled with the heated air and shortly after 4:30 o'clock, the advertised time, was ready for its flight. The ropes which held the monster piece of canvas down were withdrawn and the balloon bounded up into the air as much as one hundred feet before the spectators were hardly aware that Jewell had started on his hazardous trip. But there he was, away up in the air, hanging on to the trapeze suspended from the parachute, which was in turn suspended from the balloon. There was a slight breeze blowing out across the ground and it took the balloon over the water. He must have ascended to the height of nearly one thousand feet before he detached the parachute from the balloon and began his rapid descent. He seemed to fall for 200 or 250 feet like a shot, after which the parachute began to have more effect on the rate at which he was falling and he came down easier. Meanwhile the crowd below, who were watching him, had all made a desperate break from the open lot across the tracks, where the start was made, for the shore. It seemed likely that he would come down in shallow off Skeels' pavilion, and the people rushed out on the pier, crowding it to its utmost capacity. And they had judged about right, for he struck the water 200 or 300 feet out from the end of the pier. When he came down to within a few feet of the surface of the water he began to rock the parachute from side to side so that he would not strike under it. He struck on his back in water about up to his hips, as the tide was low. Gathering up the parachute he came to the pier, where he was met by an admiring crowd, who applauded him heartily. The balloon came down a few hundred feet from the place where the aeronaut had struck and was picked up by a sailboat.

But this aerial performance had only taken up a very small part of the afternoon. The crowd had been there before the balloon had ascended, and they stayed after they had been so amused. The region within a few rods of the grove and Curnen's pavilion seemed to contain all the amusement that day required. One of those things that seemed to make a good many happier was a colored individual who stood upon a platform picking a banjo and holding a tin at the top of his voice. After he had finished this strange act a short, red-faced man with a Mexican sombrero and buckskin clothes, who sat on a stool below the colored individual, announced that he had the most wonderful show within that the benighted people of New Haven had ever yet had opportunity to witness. It seemed to be his idea that the people whom he addressed were benighted because they had not seen his show. What was within it still a mystery to many, but it must have been pretty good, for the man, who looked as though he had just come from the stake plains of Texas, announced that if people were not pleased with his show he would refund their money to them.

But then his Texas friend one better. He said that if the people were not satisfied with his show he would give $1,000 to a charitable institution. And yet all who saw it seemed pleased. Beside this show the Texas man's show paled into insignificance—at least it did on the outside. Instead of one little tent with a banjo, a colored individual, a Texas cowboy and two or three framed colored circus pictures of wonders within, there was one large tent, several cages of animals, a front and entrance, a man with a trombone, a man with a drum and a pair of cymbals, a Barker and a pretty light-haired lady who sold tickets. After the balloon ascension this show was certainly a winner. The man who was out in front endeavoring to persuade people to come in and see things they had never seen before was certainly an orator of marked ability. He never appeared to be at any loss for words, and he said some surprising things. For instance, he invited the people to come in and take "a logical promenade." And then he opened the doors a little and let the people look in and see where they could take such a promenade as he described and also that the things were in there from which they could get their money's worth. After this the diminutive orchestration, the trombone, the drum and the cymbals played a piece, which the showman announced was the last selection before the performance would begin. But while everybody was expecting the outside attractions to disappear within doors, the dancing band was led forth and exhibited to the throng on the side walk. The bear stood on his hind legs and acted quite gentlemanly. He bowed to the audience, giving mute assent to all that his master was saying of him. The bear was then led inside and the last selection was again played. There seemed to be a large enough audience to satisfy the pretty light-haired lady at the ticket window, and the trouble ceased outside. A good many of the members of the bon ton, whom Miss Jean Fardee says were noticed going in to see the show. The truth of Miss Fardee's utterances were never more apparent.

The other attractions at the Rock are too well known to even need a passing comment to let people know what and where they are. Even without any help from outside parties the people will continue to enjoy themselves as long as "The merchants of Savin Rock" continue at the old stands. They are, in a way, what Carlyle calls "established people," and do not change much from year to year. It is very probable that many of the people who seek the ocean breezes of Atlantic City and Coney Island do not understand the good time they could have if they would cultivate the acquaintance of the merchants of Savin Rock. If one wants to find balls at the baby he can do so. If he wants to bathe in salt water there is ample opportunity. Or if he wishes the best shore dinner in the state of Connecticut it can be obtained. Thus all who are bewailing their fate that they are obliged to spend these hot July days in the city, take courage. Go to Savin Rock on a gala day and get rid of the blues. And a balloon ascension day is as good a day as any to go.

THE SILVER DEBATE.

Mr. Harvey Led Yesterday But His Opponent Did Not Reny.

Chicago, July 23.—Mr. Harvey led the debate to-day with a vindication of the important debate, which, he said, rested upon five historical reasons: (1) For two hundred years prior to the demonetization of silver in 1873 silver was seeking the mints of the world for coinage into money. (2) For years prior to 1873 there was no variation between the commercial and legal ratio of 15 1/2 to 1. During the twenty-two years since 1873, however, the two ratios had separated widely and gone from 15 1/2 to one to about 32 to 1. (3) For 388 years prior to 1873 the quantity ratio between silver and gold ranged from 56 of silver to one of gold to four of silver to one of gold, but notwithstanding this wide variation the commercial ratio had clung tenaciously to the legal ratio. (4) The price of silver in the London market as measured in gold up to 1873 was practically steady, while since that date silver had declined from 60 pence per ounce to 23 pence per ounce. (5) That the violent fluctuation in the price of silver had been going on since its demonetization and is going on to-day.

Mr. Horst did not reply directly to his opponent, but took up Mr. Harvey's statement of yesterday that but one error had been found in his work and said there were many mis-statements, not in express statements, but in false inferences, which any man of sense would repudiate on sight. Mr. Horst did not deny that his opponent believed all he had written. It was impossible to tell what man in Mr. Harvey's state might be capable of believing. The statement in "Coin's School" that every ounce of silver produced up to the present time has cost producers $2 an ounce was scouted by Mr. Horst. He said that owners had been producing silver at this cost and selling it as they had been doing at $1.20 to $1.57 an ounce they had lost by the transaction during the past three years some $250,000,000.

Mr. Horst denied the statement in Harvey's book that the people are annually paying to England $200,000,000 in private bonds. Mr. Horst challenged any one to produce evidence that the indebtedness of the people of this country involved anything like such an amount of interest.

Mr. Harvey then took his opponent to task for skipping about the book and substance for the process of tampering with the figures. He said that of proceedings as agreed upon and said he would not be diverted from his original plan by such tactics.

Visited by a Washout.

El Paso, Tex., July 23.—Silver City, N. M., was visited Sunday night by the most disastrous washout in its history. The town is located on the side of a hill and in a gulch. A cloud burst above it and almost without warning a tremendous avalanche of water swept over the town from several points. Probably half the business part was washed away and in the main street the sand and debris was piled up to the windows of the houses. The post-office building was destroyed and the Tremont, Timmer and Broadway hotels were wrecked. In fact houses tumbled down all over the town. Gillett & Son lost $12,000 worth of stock. Bridges were washed away and five miles of Santa Fe track was torn up. The weather is still threatening.

ARTICLES ARE NOW SIGNED

SMITH AND TOM RYAN ARE TO MEET NEXT NOVEMBER.

The Fight Will Take Place at Dallas the Day After the Contest Between Corbett and Fitzsimmons and It Will Be for a Purse of Five Thousand Dollars.

New York, July 23.—Articles were signed at the Glissey house to-night for the fight November 1, at Dallas, Tex., between Tommy Ryan and Myrtious Billy Smith. The purse to be put up by the Florida Athletic club is $5,000. There was some argument before the articles were signed to the effect that the purse was not large enough, and it was thought the men would hold out.

After a while Parson Davies for Ryan, Jim Wescott for Smith and Joe Vendig got together and not long after it was announced the articles had been signed. The articles provided that the purse is to be for $5,000, the loser to get $1,250. The weight is to be 142 pounds weigh-in eight hours before the fight. Each principal is to put up $500 guarantee weight, and the one failing to weigh-in will forfeit $500 to the other.

The club is to select referee and time keeper, and each principal has the privilege of selecting a timekeeper. Each principal is also to deposit $500 to guarantee his appearance in the ring. The one failing to appear will forfeit and the amount is to be divided between the club and the other principal. The club puts up $1,000 to guarantee its part of the program. All the amounts stated have been deposited. The contest will follow the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, which takes place on October 31.

HOLMES' WEB TIGHTENS.

More Evidence Is Found in the Minnie Williams Case.

Chicago, July 23.—Eighteen inches beneath the uneven surface forming the floor to the basement of the Holmes building in Englewood was discovered last evening a bloodstained undergarment, supposed to have belonged to Minnie Williams before her disappearance. It was dug up by Detectives Norton and Fitzpatrick a few minutes after the regular force of workmen employed in excavating had abandoned their task for the day.

Detectives Norton and Fitzpatrick, from the start, have believed that the search of the Englewood basement would bring forth startling developments. Last evening when the workmen left the building the detectives remained and began digging in a corner which had not been touched.

After digging some time a piece of stained muslin cloth evidently the half of a suit of underwear made for a woman, was found. It was taken to Inspector Fitzpatrick, who made a careful examination and expressed the opinion that the stains upon the garment were blood. A physician was asked to make an examination of the garment. He cut away a portion where the stain was deepest and put the piece in a solution of salt and water. The stain was washed and discolored the solution. "It is blood without a doubt," said he, "and I will make a microscopic examination."

A woman who had done washing for Minnie Williams said the missing woman wore underclothing like that found by the officers. It is said Holmes will be brought to Chicago to stand trial on the charge of murder. That was decided upon last night by A. Manier, 413 State street, who will to-day swear out the warrant and put the papers in the hands of the city police. Service cannot be had until Holmes has been released by the Philadelphia authorities, but the moment he is, if that contingency occurs, he will be arrested and brought to Chicago.

Breech Gun Exploded.

Toulon, July 23.—A breech gun exploded aboard the warship Roivines during a trial to-day, killing one sailor and wounding Admiral Chateauneuf and two of his officers and several members of the crew.

They Robbed Post Offices.

Montpelier, Vt., July 23.—William Driscoll, alias "Ottawa Irish," and William Eldridge, alias "Brooklyn Slim," were convicted in the United States court to-day on the charge of robbing the postoffices in Windsor, Glover and Morrisville. Judge Wheeler will sentence them Wednesday morning.

KILLED BY DYNAMITE.

Three Men Lost Their Lives by a Premature Explosion.

Chicago, July 23.—Dynamite killed three men and seriously injured a fourth on the drainage canal this afternoon. The accident occurred near Willow Springs and was caused by a premature explosion during the process of tampering with the dynamite. The dead are William Kelley, Thomas Soaker and Joseph Smith. The injured man is Matthew Healey.

Nearly one hundred men were working a short distance away and it is remarkable that more deaths did not result. At the time the three men were pounding sticks into a hole. Suddenly there was an explosion, the men were hurled high into the air and fell over twenty yards away, mangled almost beyond recognition. The gangs of men became panic-stricken and fled. Healey was hit by a huge piece of rock and rendered unconscious.

Great Damage by Floods.

Silver City, N. M., July 23.—Many narrow escapes from drowning are reported by people in the flooded districts. The damage to surrounding country is great. There was a loss on private residences. All the newspapers are flooded except that of the Eagle. The citizens had constructed a footbridge so to cross to a place of safety in case of floods, but it was swept away. Everyone was panic-stricken.

MYSTIC PARK RACES.

Nearly Every Horse Was Backed by a Strong Following.

Boston, July 23.—As fine a lot of horses started at Mystic park to-day as ever delighted the lovers of light harness. The track was in good condition and the weather was all that could be desired. The attendance was good. In the 2:18 trot there was considerable difficulty in picking the winners. At the outset Seylex was favorite, but shortly before the first heat there was a decided turning to the brown horse Chester, who sold up rapidly. Adra Belle also was well backed, and Silver Plate came in for attention for place. Jane had the pole but Rags took the lead and held it. He went off his feet while in the lead and lost the heat to Seylex. After this Seylex became a strong favorite, with Honeywood and Adra Belle for second choice.

In the third heat Honeywood took the lead, with Adra Belle and Don C. following closely. Seylex broke at the quarter and fell behind. Adra Belle took the lead at the turn and finished an easy first. The last three heats and race was taken by Chester.

In the 2:35 pacing class nearly every horse was backed by a strong following, with Paul Clifford for favorite. Pussy Cat had the pole and Stephen W. was in the air at the go. The horses were well bunched with Pussy Cat holding the lead, closely followed by Stephen W., until the three quarters was reached, when Paul Clifford forged ahead and took the heat. Stephen W., who finished second, was set back to fifth place for breaking. In the second heat the horses got away in a bunch. Stephen W. had the pole at the turn, when Jessie McEwen came through and held the lead to the three quarters. Paul Clifford then forged ahead and took the heat. The best time was in the second mile. Bonita, Jennings Rolfe, Pilgrim and Stephen W. came in for second, third, fourth and fifth places respectively.

FAVOR EAST SIDE LAYOUT

THE PROPOSED ELECTRIC ROAD TO MONTWESSE AND NORTH HAVEN.

Property Owners Appear Before the Selectmen and Advocate a Change From the Middle to One Side of North Quinipiac Street.

The selectmen of North Haven and several residents of Montwesse and North Haven property owners appeared before the board of selectmen at its meeting last evening and advocated changing the layout of the Fair Haven and Westville road between this city and North Haven through North Quinipiac street from the middle of the highway to the east side. The road is now running its cars in that direction to the watering trough and wants to extend its line to North Haven.

The North Haven selectmen have voted to permit a layout on the east side in the highway in that town, but the local board of selectmen recently voted for a layout in the middle of North Quinipiac street.

The action was taken because the property owners could not agree to have the tracks laid on the east side.

J. K. Funderford, representing the railroad company, said last evening that when the petition was acted upon a month ago there were four objections to the east side layout. Now they all agreed on the east side route.

Frederick W. Brockekeeper of Montwesse wanted the road laid on the east side of the highway. He said it would be much cheaper to lay the tracks on the east side than in the middle of the highway.

Representative Robert Eaton said he hoped that the change in the layout would be made. He said it was the custom in this state to lay electric roads on one side of the turnpike.

Merwin Hemingway and Postmaster George Cooper of Montwesse and Selectman Robinson of North Haven, who live on the opposite side of the street along the line, favored putting the tracks on the east side. It was said that other residents who had opposed laying the tracks on one side of the highway now favored that layout.

Theophilus Eaton urged the east side layout, and so did Merwin Hemingway, who, speaking for the second time, said he had twenty acres of watermelon and would dispose of them at a grand celebration if the change in the layout is made.

E. M. Hemingway, A. Mason, E. A. Hemingway, W. Beach and R. Pardee also favored the change.

The matter was referred to the road and bridge committee.

Selectman Cunningham called the board's attention to statements made in an afternoon paper yesterday criticizing the outside poor committee last year for compelling men to stay out in the rain all night. He said statements in the article were false, and he asked Town Agent Baldwin if
